Traffic was stopped at 2 A. M. and

The turning of the tide between that time had served to raise and float away the old section while the new section floated into place, and with the dropping of the tide came down upon its permanent supports, where it was riveted. The third tracking of the elevated lines has made necessary a heavier structure across the fiver and the span placed to-day was the first of the three in the new bridge.

Two more operations of a similar nature will be required for the completion of the work and if to-day's record is maintained the entire new bridge, a six steel, double deck structure, will have been placed in position with but fifteen hours suspension of raffic, a record breaking feat. The work was done by Terry Tench, Inc., contractors for the Interporough Rapid Transit Company. When the work was started at o'clock it was expected that it would take eight hours. During the time traffic was interrupted transfers were ST.
